

London, To-day.

The "almost desperate need" of recruits for missionary work in the Far East and other parts of the world, was yesterday stressed by Sir Robert Williams, Chairman, and the Rev. W. W. Oak, General Secretary of the Church Missionary Society, when bidding an official farewell to 246 missionaries who are shortly going overseas.

He stated that at present there were 70 urgent vacancies for missionaries, 15 of whom were needed in the Far East. Although there was cash handed for 25 to sell immediately, there was a shortage of about 100 recruits.

PEPPERMINT GET

Magnolia Tints For Autumn

Getting Rid Of Summer Sun-Tan.

MARBLE-LIKE COMPLEXIONS

The autumn fashions will begin a feminine quest for magnolia and warm, marble-like complexions to wear with the dark brown, black, green and blue of the new season's dress shows.

Removing sunburn is a long, tedious and sometimes painful process. Before buying a jar of bleach or sunburn peeler, it is as well to consult a specialist and follow her instructions. Those who have protected and improved their complexions during a rejuvenating summer have only to adapt their autumn treatments and make-up to whiten and clarify the colour.

For them autumn is a good time to take a series of "weather" face packs, perhaps a fruit and egg bleach which transforms average English sallowness into several shades lighter, or a camellia mask or weekly herbal application to coax back milky purity of colouring to the skin.

Magnolia finish to the skin make-up can give definition to a vague, uninteresting face, or, on the contrary, vulgarity to a naturally beautiful one. In cosmetics women must decide on their own type and requirements.

The dull, heavy shades for day clothes this season will tend to increase sallowness and deaden the skin. As a foil, beauty specialists are suggesting vivid lips, rouges with "light" in them, and powders to give a ripe loveliness to the skin.

Rouges of the brightest rose, geranium or a brilliant fruit colour will suit fallow, brown haired, grey or blue eyed types, with a lipstick to tone; darker if the mouth is large, lighter if the mouth is small.

Attention to Detail.

They have a dozen different tints of powder for choice; creamy pink, pale peach, apricot, ochre. Apply the rouge lightly, as if it has risen to the cheeks from within. Patting is the only way to imitate the natural, and a very little goes a long way.

Blend the outer part of the "blush" palely and deepen it in the centre. An oval face is perfected with triangular-shaped tinting, a round face carries it high on the cheekbones. A long, thin face is rounded if rouge placed halfway down on the outer sides of the face. Begin to shape the lips from the centre and work in the colour with your little finger, making the outside line soft and indefinite and treating the lower lip to a light touch. The mouth should be open, but not wide open; say "ah" and hold the position. Keep the line of the lips above the paint.

Sallow skin and indifferent looks are given new character and colour by eye-shadow and mascara for the lashes. With nondescript eyes use an eye-shadow, to tone with the dress, and apply it from the centre of the upper lid, to the temples close to the lashes as a shadow only.

To darken the lashes use a good indelible or water mascara, and use the brush almost dry. Try to darken each lash, particularly at the ends, and finish with a fine comb or brush to make them curl upwards.

Keeping Wrinkles In Check

A Few Simple Massage Movements.

SMOOTH FACES AT 60

Wrinkles are things which appear and disappear in an extraordinary way. You may have a complete set of lines one evening after a tiring day, and the next morning, if you have taken trouble and massaged the skin, they will have disappeared.

On the other hand, although wrinkles can be made to disappear so easily, if they are neglected they will become permanent, and it is essential, therefore, to attend to them in time.

Massage is of great assistance in keeping wrinkles in check. For the lines running from the mouth to the nose massage upwards and across the cheek bones. Keep the mouth open while doing so and press firmly while going upwards, and lightly across the face. For the wrinkles between the eyebrows rub upwards and outwards across the temples.

Good cold cream, almond oil, and a lotion (astringent or otherwise, as needed) is all that anybody need have.

If you attack every new wrinkle the moment it appears, there is no reason why you should have any more than a few faint lines even when you have reached the age of 60 or more.

THIS YEARS' NEW BRITISH FABRICS

Wide Range In Fancy Crepes.

Reheat, add seasoning, and, if necessary, thicken with a little flour blended with milk or water.

Beef Tournedos.

Fillet of beef (undercut from sirloin); tomatoes; (allow half a tomato to each slice of fillet); croûtes of fried bread (allow one for each slice of fillet); dripping; seasoning; stock. Cut the tomatoes into halves and bake them gently in the oven, in a little dripping, until tender. Cut the fillet of beef into thick slices trim off the fat and make each into a neat round shape. Heat the grill, put the fillets under a grill for about 10 minutes. When cooked dish up each fillet in a round of fried bread, about the same size as the fillet, and place 1/2 tomato on each, skin side uppermost. Serve with gravy.

Preserving The Face Contours.

Somewhere between 30 and 40 most women become conscious that their facial contours are losing their clear cut. Mostly this expresses itself in a blurred outline to the chin and a suggestion of crepiness in the throat.

If they are tackled at once with sensible exercises and massage, it will be many years before they succeed in making any real impression.

Simple Exercise

One of the easiest exercises which can be practised any time when you are sitting down is done by turning the head slowly from the left to right. It is so important that the movement is really a slow, otherwise it does not give a chance for the muscles to be exercised. Just move the head round to the left as far as it will go over the shoulder and then repeat in the opposite direction.

Oriental Touch.

There is a slight Eastern flavour running through the selections for early winter dress. The closed Chinese neck and long form-fitting lines are there on three-quarter length coats.

FOR EVENING WEAR

A little skull cap of black velvet shirred laces and gloves to match are handsome accessories for a white evening gown. They are the kind of little hats which will make you want to keep them on during the whole evening. And there's no danger of them slipping off—the laces hold them fast.

BRIDGE NOTES

THE LEEWAY PRINCIPLE.

The most misunderstood bid at Contract Bridge is the jump raise in partner's opening call, both when it is a game bid and when it is a bid short of game.

Thus Z bids One Spade; A No Bid; Y Four Spades. The general interpretation of this is that Y has raised to the full limit, perhaps even stretched it a little. He has made a "stop" bid. His message is: "Relying upon your opening bid I think we can make game. But don't call further unless you have more than your first bid indicated."

Well and good. When Z has opened on the minimum, he has no temptation to proceed. If, however, he has more than the minimum he may well desire to try for a slam. The Four Spade bid is ambiguous. It may have been made on ruffing ability and Z may defeat himself if he goes on. Or it may have been called on a different type of hand and Z may find that a slam was to be achieved. Generally a bid of Four over One in a major suit should be regarded as a signal to stop because the Four bidder desires, for reasons of his own, to prevent conversation between opponents and also to warn his partner that no further calling is desirable so far as he can see. The bid of Three over One in the same suit is still more questionable. Some players regard it as forcing. Others do not. No definite ruling hitherto has been made. Z bids One Spade; A No Bid; Y Three Spades; B No Bid. What should Z now do? If he has called his maximum, that is to say he has called on two and a half quick tricks and has nothing further to disclose he is inclined to leave it, especially when vulnerable. He argues that, as Y has given him his full raise, he cannot advance further without fear of disaster. The other view is that Y's bid is forcing and that Z is compelled, however weak his hand, to re-bid. That is the view which Mr. Hal Sims recommends unreservedly. He advocates the use of a jump raise to one less than game when partner has good trump support, some outside strength which is unsuitably distributed for a No Trump response, and no suit strong enough to force with.

With such hands you should make a bid of one less than game and the original bidder must not pass, even although he has made his initial bid on a minimum. This is described as the "Leeway Principle" and it is held to have certain definite advantages. It cannot go wrong. If Declarer has no more than his original bid he merely rebids his suit and there it ends at a game declaration. But when the Declarer has more than his first bid betokens he takes his partner's Three as a definite cue to demand further bidding.

Thus Z opens with One Spade. Y knows that Four Spades can be made on the hand but has no suit good enough to force with. He bids Three Spades. Z can now close the bidding with a Four Spade declaration. But if he has a second suit to reveal he may interpose another bid. If this second suit fit Y's hand there may be a slam. Y's next bid will take care of that development. If he bids Four Spades the slam must be abandoned. If he bids another suit this again will be finding out the situation delicately. By returning to Spades Z now shows lack of further interest. The slam is not procurable.

This Leeway Principle is, in fact, a deliberate underbid by partner in order to prevent further conversation. By raising to one under game level the safety margin is ensured by the extra round of bidding. Slam possibilities are thus gently probed. Should your partner fail to encourage it will not be necessary for you to contract for more than game. If partner does encourage you the slam is in sight.

EXAMPLE.—Z bids One Spade; A No bid; Y holds—S—Q-J-7-2, H—Q-10-7, D—A-8, C—A-5-4-2. Here he might well bid Four Spades. But on the Leeway Principle he bids Three Spades and Z must go on. If he calls Four Spades Y leaves it as he realizes that there is nothing doing. But if Z is able to show a second suit or bid Three or Four No Trumps there is likely to be a slam.

The same method can be applied to initial minor suit bids. Here the "Jump" bid to Three is not within a trick of game, but it is to be regarded as a forcing response, whereas a bid of Four has no such significance. Thus Z One Diamond; A No Bid; Y Three Diamonds; B No Bid. Z must now respond and if he can do no better he must say Four Diamonds and Y will close with Five. But if Z One Diamond; Y Four Diamonds, Z can leave it at Four Diamonds as the bid is not forcing and he should not advance to game unless he has additional values.

On the other hand, if partner raises immediately to game in a minor suit, that should be interpreted as an invitation to a slam. Z One Diamond; Y Five Diamonds. Here Z is invited to go on if he has a trick above the minimum opening. This subtle and ingenious use of various responses may not recommend itself to the ordinary player. Indeed, it is highly conventional and has to be understood between partners to be used effectively.

Of course, a partial score makes a difference, but at love score a responsive bid of Three over One is on this method to be regarded as absolutely forcing for one round of bidding. In fact, it is an effort to do away with what are called "stop" bids. The message of the "Three" is that you must not stop short of game. The bid of Three over One is no longer to be regarded as a maximum raise, but as a minimum raise holding out expectations but not certainty of more than game.

PENINSULA HOTEL
Rose Room Re-opening
On October 7.
POPULAR DANCERS.

Saturday, October 7, will be a gala night at the Peninsula Hotel, marking the re-opening of the Rose Room, when Don and Sally, whose dancing was so greatly appreciated during their last season's engagement, will make a return appearance, accompanied on this occasion by the Worth Sisters.

The Worth Sisters are new to Hong Kong and their type of work is said to be new to the East. They are reported to have made a decided hit in America while working there, and bring with them a number of new dances.

The two teams will work both together and separately and it is confidently hoped that the coming season's dance display will be even better than the last.

The Rose Room orchestra will include a newly-engaged accordion player, as well as other fresh elements, and is provided with entirely new music, selected from the latest compositions.

Judge Sentences Former Comrade

Five A.I.F. Battalion Members Re-United.

V. C. PLEADS FOR PRISONER

Sydney.—Five men, including a judge and the prisoner, he was trying, who served together in the 18th Battalion of the Australian Imperial Forces during the war, were reunited under extraordinary circumstances at the Darlinghurst Court here.

The central figure was Alfred Jamieson, labourer, who was charged with housebreaking. On the Bench was Acting-Judge Nield, who was an officer in the 18th Battalion. Also present in court was Mr. Joseph Maxwell, V.C., Jamieson's platoon commander in France, who gave evidence of his merits as a soldier.

Mr. Patrick Boyce, D.C.M., M.M., the court usher, was the fourth member of the 18th Battalion, and the fifth was Mr. William Nell, the courtkeeper at Darlinghurst.

Thanks to an appeal on his behalf by Mr. Joseph Maxwell, V.C., Jamieson escaped with a comparatively light sentence of nine months.

Mr. Maxwell said that a braver soldier than Jamieson had never served under him.

Jamieson eventually became a casualty, and was sent to a mental home.

When he later rejoined his unit he had changed from a good soldier to a man who was always in trouble. It was apparent that the had affected his mind.

"KID FROM SPAIN" REACHES HIGH LEVEL IN MUSICAL COMEDY

FAVOURITE COMEDIANS IN M.G.M. PROGRAMME AT QUEEN'S

Edna May Oliver Delightful In "Ladies Of The Jury."

"The Kid From Spain."
In "The Kid From Spain" we have musical comedy brought to the highest form of perfection, and entertaining from all standpoints. It is Eddie Cantor, first, last and always.

The conventional story wherein a timid fellow is forced to pose as a famous Matador I will leave to your imagination, but let me tell you the plot does not mean a thing. Snappy songs, cleverly conceived chorus scenes, beautiful girls, good supporting cast—and above all Eddie Cantor, with his brilliant foaming, endless new jokes and wisecracks, accompanied with the rolling of those big brown eyes.

His songs are already popular locally through the records on sales and the Hotel bands. "In the Moonlight," "What a Perfect Combination," "Look What You've Done to Me," sung in the traditional Cantor manner. Yes, he is the ideal "Funster" to my mind.

The whole production, under the direction of Leo McCarey (a new name to me) is lavish, and large and costly settings are used at every opportunity. It is the kind of picture that makes Sam Goldwyn, the Ziegfeld of the screen.

Troupes of lovely girls, under the tuition and guidance of Busby Berkeley, stage the most original numbers. I think he has reached the end of track effects and elaborate patterns, and I hear his work in "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933" is equally effective. His overhead camera and stage "props" are the means to set off the comedians of the great little star.

Knowing quite a lot of picture making, I always like to give a word of praise also to the camera men. Note, please, the trick photography which adds to the effect when Cantor tackles the bull. The only American Torero, Sydney Franklin, stages a perfectly thrilling bit of work.

The cast is small. The Polish girl Lyda Roberti, who used to sing with her sister in the Cabarets in Shanghai, is a vivid personality. Robert Young, Ruth Hall, John Miljan, Noah Berry and the Wonder Girls all tend to make this a show I am inclined to think out-rivals "Whoopie" and "Palmy Days." Under no circumstance should it be missed.

The King's Management have a winner all right as here is a film with a worldwide appeal. Just a mad medley of larking, comic bull-fighting, clever clowning, songs, dancing and beauty. What a formula for one swell evening's entertainment! Personally recommended. (King's).

"Gabriel Over the White House."

"Gabriel over the White House" is ambitious. Some of the critics are raving over it, others damning it with faint praise. The book from which the film is taken was written by an Englishman, Colonel Thomas Tweed, over a year ago, and came out in novel form under the title of "Rinehard."

The principal character representing the President of the United States has been changed to Hammond. It is purely fictitious, but many of his actions bear a close resemblance to those of the great Roosevelt himself. By sheer force of personality he wipes out crime and depression.

Let it be mentioned that this supernatural power comes over the great man after an automobile smash-up. The curtains flutter and on the breeze comes the Angel Gabriel, who takes possession of his soul and gives him his mighty power.

He proceeds to break up party politics, solve the unemployment problems, stamp out racketeers, force foreign diplomats to hand over their war debts and thus ensure world peace in a series of melodramatic coups.

By all means see this strong play. You may be among those who leave the theatre with the message and wonder why the film is a sensation, and think the director and scenario writers have simply "wished away" the problems of a nation in a childish manner.

At least you will admire the striking outstanding performance turned in by that sterling character Canadian actor Walter Huston as the President. I have tremendous admiration for this man as an artist. I remember his "Lincoln"—"Wet Parade"—"American Madness"—to mention a few.

The film is uncannily prophetic, and scores of millions in those United States are hoping and trusting their President will accomplish the same breath taking coups.

There is a love theme running through with that delightful, cultured actress Karen Morley as the Secretary, and the actor from the Theatre Guild from whom we were told to expect so much, Franchot Tone.

The whole cast is good, but it is Huston's picture. He plays in an inspired manner. Advised (Queen's).

"The White-gold Dragon."

From what I know of the popularity of the famous Cantonese stage and screen actor Harry Sit Kow Sin, I should think the Central will report packed houses for a week. Students of the Cantonese dialect tell me this artist ranks in the hearts of the crowds as Chevalier does with most of us. Then, too, in "The White-Gold Dragon," a production from the Unique Film Co., the star has the able assistance of his pretty wife, Lily.

If the foreigners here are anxious to see what a first-class Chinese "talkie" is like, they will see the best of the South in this popular picture at the Central.

"Ladies of the Jury"

"Ladies of the Jury" is a real laugh sensation. Edna May Oliver, Roscoe Ates, Jill Esmond and Robert McWade make this in a class by itself. The film moves rapidly, and you will see for yourself what twelve people, locked in a room to judge another human being, will do.

I know there is endless opportunity for laughter when one of my favourite comedienne, Miss Oliver, is the principal. Don't miss this comedy. (Central).

"King Kong"

"King Kong" can only be expressed in one word—"colossal." I can't begin to tell of the wonders of this film. The story, conceived by the late Edgar Wallace and continued and produced by Merian Cooper (now the husband of a pretty Dorothy Jordan), deals with the adventures of Fay Wray, Bruce Cabot and Robert Armstrong. Entangled with them we have the hairy ape "Kong."

No more of this now, but you are in for thrills in plenty. I am told that this super film will commence on Saturday October 7 at the Central.

Another Fine Mess.

The Queen's will be the centre of attraction when they produce on Sunday another of their wizard All-comedy M. G. M. Programmes. First and foremost are the popular comedians Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, in "Another Fine Mess."

Equally good from a feminine standpoint is another duo, Zasu Pitts and Thelma Todd. Just to give us full measure of comedy they have put in one by the inimitable Charley Chase. I think the Travlogue and the "Colour Scales" which shows us an array of marvellous fish, done in colour, and the ever favourite Metro News should ensure the usual packed houses. These programmes have proved themselves "Blues Chasers." Be sure and see this one. (Queen's).

"The Good Companions"

We are promised a British picture that is breaking records in the Orient, Prestley's "Good Companions."

With the true British atmosphere, some tuneful numbers and a marvellous cast, comprising Jessie Matthews, John Gielgud and Edmund Gwenn, I can advise this on your "Must See" List. (King's).

"I Loved Your Wednesday"

Then follows the Fox release which gives us a fascinating, gorgeous new Elissa Landi—"I loved you Wednesday." Warner Baxter and Victor Jory are the two men in the lovely lady's love life.

Strong advised coming attractions to the King's, when "The Kid from Spain" finishes what is sure to be a record success.

"Rasputin"

The sort of picture one cannot afford to miss, "Rasputin"—not because Lionel Barrymore gives a fine study of the mad Monk, but because it is the only chance film-goers have had of seeing the Royal Family of the American stage together in one film.

Ethel makes a colourful Czarina, John the Prince, Diana Wynyard a winsome Princess; but the master performance comes from Ralph Morgan as the Czar. Director Boleslavsky has provided a lavish, Russian Court background.

Certainly highly recommended. Due soon at the Queen's.

I'm Telling You

Eddie Cantor, besides being one of the world's best comedians, is also a writer of stories, sketches and plays.

After he lost $4,000,000 in the Wall Street crash, he wrote "Caught Short," which was later made into a film for the Dressler-Moran team.

He was born in the New York Ghetto of very poor Jewish parents. No money for education. Started as a newspaper boy, then as a singing waiter, like Irving Berlin. From there to vaudeville, then later Broadway musical shows and Ziegfeld.

Married a girl he knew in his poverty-stricken days and has five daughters, of whom he is intensely proud. Intended retiring with his large fortune, lost it all, but in three films has made it up again. A wink or a glance from his enormous black eyes and you have a world of meaning—Eddie Cantor! a master of expression and what singer of comic songs.

Short Shots

Gloria Stuart is opposite Eddie Cantor in his latest "Roman Scandals."

Irene Dunne, Walter Huston and Edna May Oliver have nearly finished "Anne Vickers" at Radio, while Anne Harding, Sari Maritz, Paul Lukas, and Robert Young have finished "Beautiful" at the same studio.

Although Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy were signed by Metro for "The Prisoner of Zenda" because of their singing, neither will do a note in the production.

Frances Dee is Meg, Katherine Hepburn is Joe, Bennett is Amy and Jean Parker is Beth in the forthcoming Radio film of Louise Alcott's "Little Women."

George Bancroft, after two years' absence from the screen, has signed for three films for the new Twentieth Century Co., and his first will be "Blood Money."

Dorothy Jordan and Merian Cooper kept their marriage secret for a whole month. Rumbur perishes in Hollywood that Sally Eells and James Dunn will marry; and as soon as husband Hoof Gibson has his divorce, he will marry like's marry a pretty chorus girl, June Gale.

Clarke Gable has been overworked, and the consequences are the film still continues to be "One After the other, the boys come upon the most popular leading man of the day, I regret to say.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL MEETING

Finance Committee.

After the Legislative Council meeting, a meeting of the Finance Committee was held, the Colonial Secretary presiding, when Votes totalling $168,900 were approved.

Dealing with item No. 78, the Government Bungalow at Fanling, $35,000, the Colonial Secretary said: As regards item No. 78, I would like the Press to note that this is not a vote for increased cost, but increased expenditure during the present financial year, owing to the work having proceeded more rapidly than anticipated.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to amend further the Dangerous Goods Ordinance, 1873." He said: This amending Ordinance will give to authorised Fire Brigade Officers powers of search for dangerous goods, hitherto possessed only by authorised police officers. It will also provide penalties for breaches of the principal Ordinance, of regulations made thereunder and of conditions of licences issued thereunder.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Industrial Schools.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to amend the Industrial and Reformatory Schools Ordinance, 1932." He said: The amendments which will be effected by this Ordinance are fully explained in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Moneylenders' Ordinance.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to amend the law with respect to transactions with money-lenders." He said: By section 371 of the Code of Civil Procedure, judgments for money may be enforced both by imprisonment of the judgment debtor and by the attachment and sale of his property.

Further provisions for the execution of judgments for money by imprisonment are to be found in sections 438 to 443 of the Code. All these sections are derived from the old Hong Kong Code of Civil Procedure of 1873 and have been retained because the geographical situation of the Colony makes it so easy for absconding traders to disappear into that mysterious region known as "Canton-more-far."

But the people who have the misfortune to get into the clutches of registered professional money-lenders do not as a rule belong to a class who find it possible to escape; and there is every reason to believe that the menace of imprisonment and the consequential loss of employment and the means of livelihood is used by money-lenders as a weapon of extortion. Although the Money-lenders Ordinance, 1911, allows the Court to re-open money-lending transactions to some extent, the Court has not felt itself able, hitherto, to prevent the operation of the provisions of the Code relating to imprisonment, which is the object of the present Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Juvenile Offenders.

An Ordinance to amend the Juvenile Offenders Ordinance, 1932, was read a first time and passed without comment.

No "Alice" has yet been named for the Paramount film of "Alice in Wonderland," although the rest of the cast is fixed.

At last the Thalbergs are back in Hollywood, but it is not likely that Thalberg will return to M-C-M. I hear, much to my delight, that Chevalier will play Danilo in "The Merry Widow" for Metro, but not till next year, and we hope Jeanette MacDonald will be Sonia.

The George Brents are back in Hollywood after their European tour, but both have been ill, and are not seen so much together in public, so Hollywood raises its eyebrows.

Tallulah Bankhead is back in Hollywood.

George O'Brien and Marguerite Churchill had a quiet wedding in a Mission, with only their families present. She turned Roman Catholic.

Margaret O'Sullivan seems still crazy about Johnny Farrow, the script writer.

The late husband of Zasu Pitts, Tom Gallery by name, will most likely, I expect, be made Madge Evans's third star.

Katherine Harper is only asking $500,000 "Alimony" from her husband, Addison Menjou.

Constance Cummings married in London to playwright, Ben Levy, day, I regret to say.

Intensified Jew-baiting

After a comparative lull, anti-Jew and anti-Austrian propaganda are being intensified in Berlin.

Apart from the fact that these activities detach public attention from the difficulties of the economic situation, they are the two points in the Nazi programme on which Herr Hitler is likely to remain intransigent.

Meanwhile, the situation is not without its comic side.

Many have been reading "The German Jew," a little book written by two eminent Jewish professors, and setting out, with a long list of names, what Germany owes to Jewish genius in the sphere of art, medicine, chemistry, music, literature and the stage.

Author of the Hymn of Hate

Among these German-Jewish patriots, now proscribed, one finds the name of Ernst Lassauer, who is, of course, the author of the once famous "Hymn of Hate," whose main burden was "God Punish England."

"By shell from sea, by bomb from air,

Our greetings shall be shed, To make each English mansion A homestead of the dead."

Herr Hitler has not included Herr Lassauer's poem in his first list of banned books. Presumably he will now do so. Herr Lassauer, who has long repented of his patriotic exuberance, is now a pacifist and a Pan-European.

as perplexed as the rest of us. With a certain implicit belief in the substantiality of matter they train their heavy artillery on the atom and, to prove that it is not just a set of equations, knock out of its nucleus half a dozen so-called fundamental units. Even before Einstein it became apparent that we may not infer too much from human experience. The "natural laws" in which that experience is expressed break down when we deal with high speeds, high heat, absolute zero, stellar masses and infinitesimals.

So with the atom. The physicist has discovered a set of facts so novel that he recognizes in them no familiar elements. He must acquire an entirely new type of experience before he can explain the half dozen new units that have been ejected from the atom and relate them plausibly. Thus far he has failed. As one of the sober critics of the new physics has remarked, it is not the electric that needs, seven dimensions but the mathematicians. The world awaits another Newton to reveal simply. We are merely in the stage of groping, with theories. One of them, clearly, must have it. Science is not to become irrational.

The Perplexing Atom

A useful historical review of atomic models was presented by Professor Compton at Chicago. It showed that physicists experiment not only with lithium or radium, X-ray tubes, or spectroscopes, but also with theories. In one generation we have had a dozen atomic models, each of which was discarded when it failed to fit new discoveries. The mechanistic model has vanished entirely. In its place we have what the specialists in mental diseases call a "psychic construct." Is matter real or is it simply a fragment of the mind? The physicists are not so mad as they seem. Their equations are like the score of a symphony. A musician can read notes, picture violins and trumpets, and in his mind's ear hear the chords and scales. We have a score for the atom, but nothing to correspond with the instruments. Electrons, positrons, protons, neutrons, alpha particles are only names given to charges and particles that we do not understand. The physicists are

BRITAIN'S SOCIALIST DICTATORS

LIFE, FREEDOM AND PROPERTY

ALL TO BE AT THEIR ABSOLUTE DISPOSAL

(By J. B. Firth.)

To the issue of Socialist manifestoes there is literally no end. The trick of making the water gush forth from the rock has been learnt only too well.

Each Socialist leader who passes the rock smites it hard and starts another flow, most of which "waters but the desert" and leaves no trace.

There never was such confused bawling and brawling. "Policy Reports" from Headquarters, Socialist League pamphlets from Backquarters, Forum Lectures, T.U.C. agenda, I.L.P. pronouncements, Crippsiana (various), Wandering Thoughts from the foot-sore Mr. Henderson, Rhapsodies by Lansbury, Acids and Antacids by Mr. Citrine—all expounding the New Socialism.

The Socialism of the moment is always "new." It is for ever being brought to a reincarnation. Always on a higher plane—the prophets say. Not at all. Political fraud and imposture keep to the old rails.

Ten Master Builders

There now appears a volume entitled "Problems of a Socialist Government." "Problems of a Socialist Government." It is a collection—as the reader is informed towards the end of a long preface—of Forum Lectures, and on the cover it is recommended to the public as being of "Full Novel Length."

Well, regarded as a "novel," it is the story of a group of picaroons setting forth to destroy the British Constitution, the Empire, Capitalism, and Private Property above a certain amount. The precise figure, of course, is not specified. Sir Stafford Cripps has obvious reasons for avoiding the blunder which John Burns once made when he said, "No man is worth more than £500 a year."

These ten authors pose as Crusaders, Master Builders, of the New Jerusalem, Planners, Creators of a New World, armed with a novel Fiat. No harm in posing and posturing. If they can win the British public round to their rotten Socialism, the world's perdition and universal failure, let them. But "The Ten" have quite given up the notion of moral suasion. It is far too slow for them. They say that it has got them nowhere.

On the contrary, it ditched them and landed this country in the catastrophe of 1931. The last Socialist Government—to use a homely phrase—"put the lid on" the follies which earlier Socialist and Radical Governments had committed, and which Conservative Governments had failed to neutralise and sterilise.

Programme of Bash and Smash
Socialists now say that the real catastrophe of 1931 was that their leaders had not the pluck to let the ramshackle Capitalist machine go right over the precipice. Now their nerves are steely. If she goes over, they say that they can put her to rights again at the bottom, and start again, and that only the Capitalists in the vehicle will be knocked out. It is the talk of folly.

They have learnt less than nothing. One of these master builders says that he is not a bit afraid of the financial panic which the appearance of a revolutionary Socialist Government would create, because "the panic would contain within itself the means for re-creating confidence." So does a typhoon, which sooner or later must blow itself out. But it sinks ships in the process and drowns passengers and crews. Our authors are persuaded that they will direct the sinking. They should not be too sure.

The new Socialism is revolutionary with the purpose to destroy by violent means. The only talk of persuasion is of so much as is necessary to win a single election. One is to be final. A New Jerusalem is to be dangled before the visionaries; a new materialism, founded on the spoiling of the capitalists—high wages, short hours, and a Good and Easy Time for all proletarians—is to win over the masses. It is a programme of Bash and Smash.

The Socialist Terror
Capitalism—for the frontal attack is against capitalism—is scarcely to know that it is being garrotted. Nor will the electors be given time to repent that they have returned a gang of political bandits to Parliament.

As soon as the revolutionary House of Commons has been sworn in, the Socialist Terror is to start, not quite so bloody as a Communist Terror might be, but sufficiently bloody for the purpose. An Emergency Powers Bill, conferring upon the Government absolute authority to do what it likes by Order and cancel every existing safeguard of the life, property, and freedom of the subject, is to be passed, if not at a single sitting, at least in a week.

We are assured that it will all be strictly Constitutional. The legal fiction, "The King can do no wrong," will be gloriously transfigured into "Dictator Cripps can do no wrong." He will not be able to commit a wrong or a sin in the direction of revolution, even if he tried. Why? Because he has won an election at which he asked for a mandate to slay the Amalek-like capitalists and let not one of them—save, I suppose, a few eminent lawyers—escape.

Revolution in Three Weeks

If the House of Lord shows the slightest signs of resistance, it is to be blotted out. The answer to every objection will be that, the Government have won the election; the reply to all resistance a strictly Constitutional "kick in the jaw." In three weeks—I think that is to be the time period—we are to have a greater upheaval in this country than the Norman Conquest or the Civil War combined.

Before it takes place, however, I hope that some opportunity may be found or made of putting Sir Stafford Cripps through a searching cross-examination on this monstrous thesis of his—that he can constitutionally destroy the whole Constitution at a single stroke. Lord Carson or the late Lord Rirkenhead would have stripped such impudent sophistry bare in ten minutes. Maybe Sir John Simon will accept the brief.

Sir Stafford Cripps's most famous predecessor in the representation of Britol had a profound reverence for the British Constitution. But what was to Burke the very Ark of the Covenant is to Sir Stafford an antiquated, worm-eaten relic of superstition, without even the value of an antique. He jumps into Burke's sanctuary with a petrol can and a torch. What he cannot kick to pieces he will burn.

SWEDISH PRINCE IN COLONY

Returning Home After Tour Of China.

H.R.H. Prince Carl of Sweden arrived in Hong Kong this morning from Shanghai by the Empress of Japan, en route to Sweden. He will continue his voyage by the S.S. Shantung.

Prince Carl will leave Hong Kong early in October for Sweden by way of India, the Suez Canal and Europe. The Prince stated that his principal objective is to arrive home in time for Christmas in order that he may be with his family.

TRAVELLING INCognito

H.R.H. Prince Carl, who is travelling incognito under the name of Count Carlsson, is accompanied by a friend, Mr. G. Wennberg.

The Prince will attend an unofficial tiffin party at Government House, to-day, and to-morrow night will be the guest of the Vice-Consul for Sweden, Mr. C. Blaker, and Mrs. Blaker, at an unofficial dinner party at the Hong Kong Hotel.

The m.v. Shantung, on which the Prince will leave the Colony, is due here on Sunday, and will leave at daylight on Monday. The Prince will go on board on Sunday night.

Found N. China Interesting.

Prince Carl's visit to China has been one of the most comprehensive ever made by a member of a Royal House, and during his stay in Shanghai he expressed his appreciation at the kind reception accorded him by the Chinese people. He was particularly interested in Peking and Tientsin.

"The Chinese people have been very kind to me since my arrival in Shanghai some weeks ago and my entire trip from here to Nanking and then on to Peking was most interesting," declared H.R.H. Prince Carl of Sweden in an interview with the press in his suite at the Cathay Mansions, Shanghai, on September 24.

Prince Carl returned to Shanghai after having spent more than two weeks visiting principal cities of North China. While his trip is entirely unofficial, this youthful member of Swedish royalty was entertained lavishly by various governmental and municipal officials at each important place he visited.

Visited Nanking.

Leaving Shanghai the evening of September 1 Prince Carl, accompanied by two travelling companions and Mr. E. H. Lindquist, Swedish Consul-General to China, arrived at Nanking the following morning, where the party was received by representatives of the Government. During the stay in Nanking he visited the tomb of Dr. Sun Yat-sen. He also met Mr. Lin Sen and attended a luncheon given in his honour at which high officials were present, including Mr. T. V. Soong, Minister of finance.

Upon arrival in Peking numerous places of historical interest were visited by the royal entourage.

The Prince's Tientsin visit was especially interesting to him. He viewed the actual making of Chinese rugs. At one of the rug-weaving factories he visited the management presented him with a small rug, while the Mayor of Tientsin, noting his admiration of the carpet, gave him another.

One of the most enjoyable things he did at Tientsin was "play around the beach," Prince Carl said. His programme of official activities in Tientsin was broken September 12 by an excursion to Lao Shan.

Travelled to Tainan.

Leaving Tientsin His Royal Swedish Highness went to Tainan to view the Holy Mountain, which proved one of the most impressive natural sights of his entire trip.

Aside from his interest in Chinese art—which has noted him a collection of swords ranging from the large "knife" of the executioner to short matches used on horse-back, as well as numerous smaller objects—Prince Carl has paid particular attention to factories and industrial development in China. In every city he has visited, calls have been made at factories and manufacturing establishments of all description.

His purpose is to take back to Sweden definite and detailed information concerning industrial methods of all countries he has visited on his world tour.

Speaking of his visit to Peking the Prince said, "I shall always remember the beauty of this old Chinese city."

TRAFALGAR DAY CELEBRATIONS

Programme Of Events.

SEARCHLIGHT DISPLAY BY WARSHIPS

The flood lighting of several buildings on the Island and Mainland by searchlights from H.M. ships in the harbour, will form an outstanding feature in the Trafalgar Day Naval Programme.

The searchlight display will commence at 7.30 p.m., when a bunch of rockets will be fired from H.M.S. Suffolk. This will be a signal for all ships to train their lights on the foremast of the Suffolk, where Nelson's famous signal, "England Expects Every Man This Day To Do His Duty," will be hoisted.

The searchlights will then play on several prominent buildings and be turned skywards where for several minutes sweeping movements in the air will be given. The display will conclude at 7.45 p.m.

At 10 p.m. the Suffolk will train her searchlights on the Peninsula Hotel, where the Trafalgar Day Naval Ball is to take place.

The parade at the Cenotaph at 11 a.m. will be attended by H.E. the Governor, and the Civil Lord of the Admiralty, Captain D. Euan Wallace, M.C.

Wreaths will be laid by His Excellency, representatives of the Navy, the Navy League, and other public bodies, after which the "Last Post" and the "Reveille" will be sounded.

The parade will be attended by companies from H.M.S. Berwick and Suffolk, the 8th Destroyer Flotilla, H.M. Submarines, and small ships, and the H.K. Royal Naval Volunteer Reserves (if formed), the Officers' Coast Guild, the Deep Sea Scouts and Sea Scouts and the Bands of the Royal Marines and H.M.S. Suffolk.

Following the parade at the Cenotaph, a six-foot model of H.M.S. Victory will be drawn through the streets on a gun carriage by men of the Berwick.

BOY COMMUNIST ORATOR.

NAVAL OFFICER FINED

Traffic Court Cases.

MR. R. POINSOT FINED $70 FOR SPEEDING

Lieut.-Commander Chichester, 1st Lieutenant of H.M.S. Tamar, was this morning fined $5 by Mr. Schofield in the Traffic Court for leaving his car, No. 3938, unattended in Pedder Street on September 14.

Defendant stated that when he was in Hong Kong two years ago the place where he had left his car, opposite the Hong Kong Hotel, was used as a parking space.

Dangerous Driving.

Mr. R. Poinsot, Manager of the Little Shop, Gloucester Arcade, was fined $70 for dangerous speeding in Hennessey Road at 8.50 p.m. on September 17.

The police alleged that he drove along Hennessey Road at a speed of 40 miles an hour, at one time reaching 50, when Traffic Sergeant McGuinness, who was following, temporarily lost sight of him.

His Worship said that 40 miles an hour at that time of night was an exceedingly dangerous speed and warned the defendant that another offence of this nature would involve the loss of his licence.

To-Day's Short Story.

ROSITA DINES ALONE

By Ivy O.
Eastwick.

LA ROSITA was about to dine in her dressing-room at the Opera House an hour prior to her performance.

The look she turned upon her plate contained mingled dislike and resignation. A slender round of tongue reposed thereon, ungarished and bare. The sight of it seemed to awaken feelings of rebellion.

After all, was Lucio worth it? Was any man worth it? Why should she starve herself to obtain the kind of figure that he admired? Her imagination was keen; probably sharpened by hunger; it conjured up delightful things upon the plate, with a brimming glass of champagne.

The picture faded! How horribly insufficient that small piece of tongue and that slender wafer of toast appeared now! And instead of champagne—a miniature cup of very black coffee!

Then she caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror opposite and what she saw caused her to smile. She admired tremendously the svelte figure reflected there!

"Charming!" She issued her own verdict and then turned upon the piece of tongue and the parched toast a look of gratitude. After all, was it not to this sort of meagre meal that she owed her so delightful slenderness? It had turned her from a really fat lady of some fourteen stone into a sylphlike creature of a mere eight stone.

She visualised Lucio's feminine companions of the days when he had helped develop the golden voice that was hers—they had been slim, graceful women.

How she had envied them! Now she had even as they: Lucio had raved about her voice, praising every note of the bird-like cadences which used to pour from her throat, but apart from her voice he cared nothing for her, she knew!

When Appearance is Secondary. There came a knock upon the door. Rosita looked up.

"Why, M'sieu Anton! This is a surprise! Come in!"

The white-headed old man entered. "Well, M'sieu?" as he regarded her. "You are thinking—Ah! the first time to look her part—come now, is it not so?"

News In Brief.

The Street Sleepers' fund, which has made a promising start, has received a donation of $400 from the South China Athletic Association.

The forthcoming marriage between Peder Basmus Pederson of 673, Route Fréluet, Shanghai, and Anna Jensen, now en route to Hong Kong on the s.s. Buwa Maru, is announced.

The forthcoming marriage between Ernest Frederick Victor Barnes, of "Derrington," 3 Bowen Road, and Edith Irene Everest of 40, Dallas Road, Sydenham, London, is announced.

The forthcoming marriage between James McAulay of the s.s. Kiangsu, China Navigation Company, and Mary Hill Fleming, of 21, Octavia Cottages, Greenock, Scotland, now on her way to the Colony on the s.s. Antenor, is announced.

The first Annual Aquatic Sports of the Wah Tai College will be held at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the Chinese Athletic Association's Bathing pavilion. Mr. Ngan Shing-kwan will present the prizes.

There will be a general meeting of the Hong Kong University Engineering Society at 8.30 p.m. to-day in Room "K" at the University, when Mr. S. Simpson will deliver a lecture on "Non-ferrous Alloys in Engineering."

The Rev. Father O'Connell, S.J., who is passing through Hong Kong on his way to River View College, Sydney, N.S.W., where he will take up research work, lectured last night at a meeting of the Arts Society of the Hong Kong University, on the "Solar System." Sir William H. Murray, B.A., M.A., M.P., was in the chair.

The Colonial Secretary, seconded by Mr. B. Finlayson, Professor, said the Bill was read a first time.

He did not answer for some moments. When at last he spoke his tone was doubtful.

"It is well to look one's part, Rosita, and you are very beautiful to-night." He spoke the compliment sincerely. "But in my career—and for fifty years this has been my career—as a manager of opera, I have learned that there are more aspects than one to be considered in this art of ours!"

Rosita looked her surprise. "Why? How do you mean?" she stammered.

"First, we must always remember that the chief care is the voice. The appearance is only secondary!" His tone was very grave.

"I do not understand you." "Do you not? Think!"

But it required very little thinking about. Only she could know how hard a task it was nowadays—since this shimmering craze had taken possession of her—to reach her top notes! But she had thought that no-one else had noticed, and here was this old Anton! And if he, why not the rest of the world, her audience—and her critics?

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "The Lighthouse on Silvering Sand," by J. S. Fletcher.

Surely they could not have noticed, or the newspapers would have been filled with adverse criticism long since!

Bah! Anton was trying to frighten her! She spoke coldly.

"My appearance, M'sieu Anton, is beyond reproach. I can only suppose that you allude to my voice."

"But no—and yes, Madame. I do doubt the beauty of your voice—is it conceivable? But you yourself—have you the same confidence in your voice as you had, say, six months ago when first you took this great city by storm?"

She was silent. "You yourself are more beautiful—yes!" he continued. "But which do you hold the more dear, your person or your voice?"

"My voice!" The words broke from her lips like a sob. Her voice more than her appearance—yes! But Lucio more than all! She tried to defend herself.

"Figure to yourself. M'sieu! Mimi should be slim. Yet always Mimi is—so gross, so—so immense where she should be fragile, delicate, even as I am now!"

"It is good that Mimi should be slim, I agree! But it is better that Mimi should reach her top—C, Rosita. They"—he jerked his hand in the direction of the auditorium—"do not notice yet. But I—I notice. How long before the public finds out? How long before the critics find out? And what then?"

"By that time I shall be married to Lucio, I hope," she thought, but aloud she said, in rather foolish reiteration: "Mimi must be slim!"

"But as you get slimmer, Rosita, your voice becomes slimmer, too!" Recognising the truth of this she made no answer.

His eyes fell upon her plate. "Dieu! what is this? This so great dinner! How do you live?"

She was sullen, and vouchsafed no answer.

Rosita is Angry. "You cannot sing, Mimi, on dry toast and tongue!" he asserted dogmatically.

"I can—and I will!" She was obstinate.

"You think you can, hein? I tell you that you are mistaken. Your voice gets thinner with every performance—your top notes become more shaky. And Lucio Poncellini remains to-day from Europe! What will he say?"

"Bah! you rave! What a fine manager of opera you are indeed—you make me nervous—just before my performance! Now—what are you doing?"

Anton had rung the bell. "A boy answered it."

"You go to Lucio's this minute," he ordered the lad, "and you bring back to this room a sole mignon, a quail, some fruit with much cream, and a bottle of champagne!"

The boy departed, and Anton turned to the angry prima donna. "And you will wait!"

"Will not!" she blazed. "You will wait!"

"You will wait!" she blazed. "You will wait!"

OPIUM FROM MACAO FOR SINGAPORE

Chinese And Japanese Charged.

HEAVY BAIL GRANTED

That a trade in illicit opium is being carried on between Macao and Singapore, was alleged by Revenue Officer Grimmer, when prosecuting a Chinese and a Japanese charged with offences under the Opium Ordinance at the Central Magistracy to-day.

Li Tat-sang, 40, of the Nam Hoi Shop, 351, Hennessey Road, this morning appeared before Mr. W. Schofield when his counsel, Mr. D. L. Strellet entered a plea of not guilty to charges of:

(i) That you did aid, abet, counsel and procure together with other persons known and unknown, both in the Colony and without, unlawfully to despatch opium from a place without the Colony to places outside the Colony where the import would be punishable by law.

(ii) That you unlawfully did have in your possession 6.4 casks of non-Government opium at 851, Hennessey Road, third floor, on September 21 and that you unlawfully did have in your possession more than one cask of opium at 30, Queen's Road West, ground floor, on September 21, 1933.

Mr. Strellet asked his Worship to reconsider an application for bail and said that his client was able to furnish $5,500 in cash which would suit the requirements of the Ordinance.

His Worship accordingly granted bail in that sum. The hearing of the case was postponed until Thursday, October 5, at 10.30 a.m.

Japanese Charged.

Oka Yone Kichi, a Japanese, also appeared before Mr. Schofield charged with conspiracy together with other persons known and unknown, both in the Colony and without, unlawfully to despatch opium from a place without the Colony to places outside the Colony where the import would be punishable by law.

Mr. F. H. Loebly, who appeared for the accused, made a formal application for bail.

Counsel said he wished to draw his Worship's attention to the charge, under which his client should be discharged at once.

Mr. Loebly continued that the

BANISHEE RETURNS WITHOUT PERMIT.

Came "To Look For His Wife And Children."

SIX MONTHS' GOAL

Pleading guilty to a charge of a breach of the Deportation Ordinance, Lai Chun, 52, was this morning sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy.

The accused, who was banished for a period of 10 years on May 16, 1933, said that he had come back to the Colony in order to look for his wife and children, who were residing at Shaui-kwan.

Inspector Vincent said the accused had no right to return to the Colony without first asking the permission of the Inspector General of Police.

charge was not correct, and add, "Perhaps Mr. Grimmer should not leave the work of drawing up charges to some of his junior Revenue Officers, but should look after it himself."

Mr. Grimmer, amid much laughter, replied that the Superintendent of Imports and Exports had himself drawn up the charge.

The charge, stated counsel, was that his client had to import opium outside the Colony.

Mr. Grimmer interposed at this stage and said that as he had previously told his Worship, opium was being sent from Macao to Singapore and they had information that a schooner carrying opium was now on its way to the Colony.

Counsel said he objected to the word conspiracy and suggested that the charge be amended to "aid, abet, counsel and procure."

Mr. Grimmer said that he could do nothing until the documents in their possession were translated from the Chinese and Japanese into English.

Mr. Loebly said what it all led up to was bail and he suggested that $500 would meet the case.

Mr. Grimmer said that nothing under $5,000 would be considered.

His Worship pointed out to counsel that the chances of escape from the Colony were just as high for a Japanese subject as for a Chinese.

Bail in the sum of $5,000 and cash and half in substantial securities was granted and the hearing of the evidence of arrest was fixed for Thursday next at 10.30 a.m.

SHANGHAI'S CHALLENGE FOR THE PRENTICE BOWLS TROPHY

J. C. MILLAR, the Club's brilliant wing forward, will not be seen in the fifteen this season. He has been transferred to Hongmoon.

RUGBY CLUB LOSSES

MILLAR AND HALL - THOMPSON NOT PLAYING

English International Forward For Navy Fifteen.

CLUB HAVE GOOD NEW TALENT

(By SCRUM HALF)

The Hong Kong Rugby Club, who won the Interport in Shanghai and who triumphed over the U.S. Marines early this year, will be without A. P. Hall Thompson and J. C. Millar, their brilliant wing forwards, this season.

Hall Thompson is at present in Foochow, while Millar has been transferred to Hongmoon.

The Club, however, will have good new talent on view when they commence their trial matches on Wednesday, October 11.

G. Hutchison, who captained Greenock High School, will be a serious contender for a centre three-quarter position, while T. M. L. Redmond who played for Rosslyn Park in the 1929-30 season, is attempting to get into the side on one of the wings.

Redmond will, however, be up against stern opposition from Geoffrey Lammert, though he has put on a lot of weight, and J. J. Ferguson, who covered himself with distinction in Shanghai.

G. A. Stewart, who has played for Yokohama and All-Japan, is one of the new forwards, among whom are H. A. Browning and D. M. Wheeler, the Shanghai Interporters. C. Austin is another Shanghai Interporter now wearing Club colours.

Austin hooked for the Northerners in 1931 when Hong Kong's supremacy behind the scrum gave them a triumph by a record score at the Valley.

H. C. Meoke will make his debut at scrum half, the position he held in the Old Paulines' fifteen in England.

Robertson Again Fit

L. G. Robertson, who broke his collar bone last season, is again fit and ready to take any place offered him. He is quite the best all-rounder in the Club.

The Club will also have "J. P. Whitlam, J. J. Ferguson, W. H. B. Rigg, R. H. Griffiths, G. P. Lammert, M. W. Turner, J. A. R. Selby, who is now vice-captain, I. N. Macintosh, I. H. Bradford, A. D. Munroe, E. F. Walkden, S. H. Garrod, D. McLellan, J. H. McElney, who is again skipping the side after one season, R. I. Cherrill, B. C. Allan, D. A. Cumming, and A. R. Cox to form the nucleus of a strong side.

W. E. Peers, who is at present on leave, should be back in time for the Interport.

The ground at the Valley will be open for training on Mondays and Wednesdays. The first trial is scheduled for October 11 with the second a week later.

Big Fixture List

The first fifteen will play regular Saturday fixtures commencing on October 21, and the "A" have been given a fixture every Wednesday, commencing on October 25. Should there be sufficient support a second "A" fifteen will be run.

This season should be one of the most memorable in the history of the game in the Colony. In addition to Shanghai coming down at Chinese New Year there is every possibility of a match being staged between the Colony (not only the Club) and the Australian Universities' team, who will pass through here in January on the way to Japan. Should the visitors play on their way here, they will almost certainly play the return trip.

CAMPBELL BEATEN IN THE HALF MILE

Probable Suspension By Association.

ROZA-PEREIRA RECORDS EASY TRIUMPH

(By CRAWL)

L. Roza Pereira the Victoria Recreation Club 220 and 440 Yards Free Style Champion, secured his third title last night when he annexed the half mile open championship by a length from L. Cpl. W. T. Campbell of the Borderers, in 12.8.0, clipping 11.3/5 seconds off his previous best, set up last year.

Campbell who is a member of the European Y.M.C.A., was not given permission to swim in the event, which was held under the auspices of an unaffiliated Club, by the H.K.I.A.S.A.

As a result of Campbell's entry in this event it is probable that he will be suspended from taking an active part in any further championships held by the Y.M.C.A. or the H.K.I.A.S.A.

Ed da Roza, holder of the Open Diving Championship, retained his title at the expense of L. Roza Pereira and S. H. Wong, of the Chinese Athletic Association.

Mrs. M. J. McMahon was seen in a thrilling race against Miss Doris Hunt in the Ladies' 100 Yards Open Championship, which she won in 70.3/5 secs. The 50 Yards Open Championship of the Colony was won by E. B. Roza from W. M. Lawrence and T. L. Paget, in the excellent time of 26.1/5 seconds.

The following were the results:—

50 Yards Free Style Open Championship:—
1. E. B. Roza
2. W. M. Lawrence and T. L. Paget
Time: 26.1/5 secs.

880 Yards Free Style Open Championship:—
1. L. Roza Pereira
2. W. T. Campbell
Also swam:—Gnr. Ellington, R.A.F. W. Ambrose.
Time: 12 mins. 8 secs.

100 Yards Free Style Ladies' Open Championship:—
1. Mrs. M. J. McMahon
2. Miss Doris Hunt
Also swam:—Miss Chan Wootland.
Time: 70.3/5 secs.

Open Diving Championship:—
1. Ed da Roza
2. L. Roza Pereira
Also competed S. H. Wong
97.0 points.

100 Yards Consolation Race:—
1. H. M. Remedios
Time: 64.1/5 secs.
Mixed Team Race:—
G. J. Smith's Team:—E. Lawrence, G. J. Basto, G. Agab, A. Elms, C. F. Rororio, J. A. Gutierrez, H. M. Remedios and G. J. Smith.
Time: 4 mins. 14 secs.

Seven Finals will be featured in the programme for the Small Units' Aquatic Sports at the Y.M.C.A. to-day, commencing at 3 p.m.

what I have heard they are likely to be the strongest challengers for the Triangular Tournament trophy.

English International Forward
They will have the services of Lt. N. L. Evans, a forward who played for England against Wales and Ireland last season, and in all three internationals in the previous season.

They have however, lost E. R. A. Dorsett, a very useful forward and a good place kick, and Lt. Ryder and Lt. Francis, two backs who went on the Taimoshan round the world.

"Tubby" Linton will no doubt unearth some good talent from the eighty R. A. F. Officers on the Eagle.

Army Loss Prior
The Army have secured no new players of note, and have lost the services of Lt. Prior, their leader of the forwards last year.

I understand that the Royal Artillery, under Lt. Roberts are going to run a side, against the Club "A" and the Lincoln's. They may combine with the Lincoln's in several games. The Borderers will again provide the majority of the Army players, though the East Lancashire may challenge their supremacy.

MR. T.G. MAIN QUIETLY CONFIDENT

SURPRISE INVITATION FROM CANTON

"BADGES WILL NOT WORRY US"

— SHANGHAI CAPTAIN.

(By Short Head.)

MR. T. G. MAIN, captain and manager of the Shanghai Interport Lawn Bowls team, was quietly confident of victory over Hong Kong in the forthcoming series of three Interports when I saw him on the Empress of Japan early this morning. He, however, pointed out that anything might happen in a game of bowls.

The Shanghai team, which is composed of T. G. Main (Recreation Club), W. A. Bailey (Yangtze Club), C. Richards (Shanghai L.B.C.), A. A. Malcolm (Shanghai L.B.C.), J. M. Lopes (Clube Lusitano), and G. M. P. Remedios (Clube Lusitano), all looked very fit. They will open their tour of the Colony to-day when they meet the Police Club at 1.30 p.m.

By a coincidence Mr. Percy Ephgrave, Hon. Secretary of the Shanghai L.B.A., also travelled on the Empress. Mr. R. Dorrance, donor of the Dorrance Cup for the annual match between Talkoo Dock and Kowloon Dock, also arrived in the Colony to-day, travelling by the Katori Maru.

The Shanghai team were surprised to hear early this morning from an unofficial source that they were being invited to play in Canton. They, however, learned from the Colony officials that no representation had been made to them.

It transpires that Mr. Malcolm was hoping to visit Canton and that a friend had suggested the team would play in the southern capital. No request was made to the Hong Kong L.B.A., however, and, as the fixture list has already been published, it is now impossible to consider the proposition.

The invitation, however, is worth considering for future visits.

Mr. Main, the slipper of the visitors, spoke highly of his team, saying that Hong Kong would be seriously challenged for the Prentice Cup they won in Shanghai last year. He mentioned the fact that the wearing of badges by the Hong Kong players would not be sufficient to give them victory.

Mr. Main has just recovered from an attack of malaria. He was most unfortunate in the Shanghai Championships where he reached the semi-final of the Rink and Pairs (with M. A. A. Malcolm) competitors, but owing to his departure for the Colony and consistent rain in Shanghai he was forced to scratch in both events.

The Portuguese members of the team—Messrs. Lopes and Remedios—were most enthusiastic over their first official visit to the Colony. They are the only players new to the Interport series.

After having had considerable rain in Shanghai recently, the visitors should find the plover greens to their liking at the present moment. The recent sun have left most greens, especially at the Valley, in a soft state.

Among those present to welcome the Shanghai team were Mr. J. Russell, President of the L.B.A., Mr. Harry Hampton, Hon. Secretary of the L.B.A., and Mr. O. Brown, a former President, and Mr. R. P. Phillips, former Shanghai Interport. After breakfast the visitors were taken to the Peninsula Hotel, where they will be accommodated during their stay.

Some of the 1933 Amateur Cup winners, who were defeated yesterday, have had sustained victories in the result of a full season's play on the way back to the club.

The report issued to members states: The account shows that the credit balance of $392.40 has been increased to $575.28. Nine new members joined the Club during the season, seven resigned on leaving the Colony, while nine members were transferred to the absent members list.

The Club again wishes to place on record their appreciation for the kindness shown by the following clubs for the loan of their grounds during the season.—The (Continued on Page 11).

MAK WAI-MING'S FINE FEAT

Bettors Miss Yeung's 50 Metres Time.

Mak Wai-ming, the Chinese Civil Servants' swimmer, recorded the excellent time of 33.4/5 seconds for the 50 Metres Free Style for Boys under 14 at last night's South China Amateur Athletic Federation's Championships and Elimination Trials for the China National Meeting to be held at Nanking on October 10.

Mak Wai-ming's time was better than Miss Yeung Sau-king's by 2.1/5 seconds, which is all the more remarkable since his time in the heats held last week was no better than Miss Yeung Sau-king's.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS TO-MORROW

South China Make Debut Sunday.

POLICE, CLUB AND LINCOLNS SHOULD WIN

Ten Games On Card.

Three premier league games will feature the opening of the local soccer season to-morrow, when ten games in all will be decided.

On Sunday South China, League Champions, will make their debut against the Chinese Athletic at Caroline Hill, and a record crowd are expected to see Hong Kong's representatives at the National Meeting in Nanking in action.

In to-morrow's programme the Police, who have strengthened their forward line, should overcome the Recreation at King's Park.

The Club will be meeting the Royal Artillery, and although their prospects are by no means rosy, they should secure the better of the Gunners who have lost several first-class men. In the friendly game earlier in the season the Artillery beat the civilians by the odd goal in five.

Military Sides Should Win

The Lincoln's, who inflicted an overwhelming defeat on the Club last Saturday, will be meeting Kowloon who have got together a useful team, but the soldiers should just win.

The Borderers, who meet St. Joseph's on Sunday at Sookunpoo, are almost assured of a win in view of the latter team not being at full strength owing to several of their players having an active interest in the V.R.C.—Shanghai Y.M.C.A. aquatic gala on the Monday.

Hazelwood who played with considerable success for the Borderers' Third Division team last year has been promoted to the First team in place of Portey, who is leading the second team.

The cream of the Second division will be in action to-morrow. The Chinese Athletic, last year's winners, are pitted against the Hong Kong Club against whom they are almost assured of victory.

The Borderers, who were runners-up, will be meeting the Royal Navy, who, although not at full strength are expected to give them a good game.

(Teams on Page 8.)

JOCKEY CLUB STAKES

London, to-day, Tatyang (at 4 to 1) won the Jockey Club Stakes by 1 1/4 lengths from Felicitat (at 4 to 6) in a field of seven starters. Interace (at 20 to 1) was third 7/4 lengths behind.—Reuter.

The Hong Kong Cricket Club have conceded points to the Police, Ellipino and the Army in the "B" Division of the Lawn Tennis League as they are now unable to raise a team.

VEHICULAR FERRY PROBLEM

Difficulty In Berthing Large Craft.

MORE EXPENDITURE

"Considerable difficulty has been experienced in berthing the large new vessels of the Vehicular Ferry with the speed necessary for a rapid and regular service," declared the Hon. Mr. D. W. Tratman, in his Budget Speech, yesterday, "and expenditure on this service may be called for next year."

"Certain additions to the piers have been recommended by the Port Development Engineers," he said, "especially at the Hong Kong side, but before embarking on this fresh expenditure, estimated at a lakh or a lakh and a quarter, Government has thought it advisable to seek an independent opinion and the case is about to be laid before Mr. O. A. G. St. J. Kneller, Superintendent Civil Engineer, H.M. Dockyard, who with the approval of the Commodore has kindly consented to place his experience of these matters at our disposal."

KOWLOON-CANTON RAILWAY

Insufficient Rolling Stock.

TRAFFIC INCREASE

Expressing gratification at the increase in passenger traffic on the Kowloon-Canton Railway, the Hon. Mr. D. W. Tratman, C.M.G., in Budget Speech at the Legislative Council meeting, yesterday stressed the need for more up-to-date rolling stocks.

"The Clerical Services of the Kowloon-Canton Railway are shewn under the different sub-departments instead of being grouped together at the end," Mr. Tratman said. "There is a reduction of one Junior Clerical Service clerk. With the retirement of one of the two European Traffic Inspectors the vacant post was filled by a Chinese and the salary changed from sterling to dollar."

"The considerable and gratifying increase in passenger traffic necessitates the appointment of a third Inspector who will also be Chinese. The responsibilities attaching to the terminal railway station at Kowloon are so much greater than those of any of the other stations that it has been decided to raise the salary scale of the Kowloon Station Master."

"Goods traffic at Yau-mat has increased, necessitating an extension to the present yard. The Station buildings at Sheung Shui are in a bad way and must be re-conditioned. A new permanent structure is very desirable but must be postponed till better times."

"The sub-head 'new bodywork for four coaches' has appeared regularly for the last few years. The provision now made will complete the programme. In all 22 coaches will have been rebuilt."

"At present we have not a sufficient number of second class coaches to meet the traffic needs."

Her anger was the more fierce for the beautiful vision before her hungry eyes—sole, quail, champagne, cream!

"I no!" said Anton, with an assumption of much dignity. "But remember—your voice depends on much rich food, while your figure—"

—he snorted—"depends on dry toast. It is your choice, you think? I tell you it is not so! It is the choice of the public! Your voice is theirs! You must care for it! Your figure—it matters not!"

The Unforgivable Sin.

When a famous singer breaks down on a top note, it can be felt all round the theatre. Everyone wriggles uncomfortably. And the dreadful note seems to echo and to re-echo throughout the building.

Rosita had committed the nearly unforgivable crime of embarrassing her audience in this manner.

But the full consciousness of her fault was not with her. Her mind was divided—more than half of it was with what Lucio was thinking! She had not been able to pick out his face from among that sea of faces staring up at her from behind the footlights, but that he was there somewhere she knew!

Her mind was saying: "Lucio, forgive me! I can bear everything—failure, scorn, mockery, if only you will forgive my voice, and be content with me as I am!"

Lucio came to Rosita's dressing-room as soon as the performance was over.

"Maestro!" she whispered. "Lucio!"

He did not speak, but walked up and down in a manner which reminded her, an originally, of a caged lion of tiger at the Zoological Gardens.

She rested her head on her arm, and sat there regarding him. To her mind, he was too full of passion to speak to her. Then he picked up a silver-backed hair-brush from her dressing-table and threw it at the mirror, shattering it into a thousand splinters.

Rosita's eyes opened to their fullest width. She had had plenty of experience of men in love with her, but this was the first time that any one of them had thrown a hair-brush at a mirror in his passion.

In any case, he action seemed to ease the man's feelings somewhat, for he turned to her and shouted: "Heavens! Have you gone mad!"

"No! But think you have!" she answered.

Luci Storms.

"I go away," he said, furiously, "for a short time six months I go away, leaving you to sing as only you can sing—only I, of all the world, could ever have taught you to sing. I come back to find—what do I find?"

She smiled at him.

"I suppose you are surprised?" she asked.

"Not you are wrong! I am not surprised! I am mad—yes, quite mad! That ideal that can be the matter with me! This is all a dream—a horrible nightmare!" He sank into a chair, covered his face with his hands and sat in this position for some seconds, when he sprang to his feet again.

"You screamed—like a night-owl you screamed! And you hooted—like a night-owl you hooted. But never once—no! never once—did you sing! An look at you! He was warning to his subject considerably. 'Look at you! Look at your chest. What sort of music do you expect to get out of a little case like that? Sacre! you cannot breathe properly cased up in that manner. Cannot breathe! Cannot sing! Cannot do anything but stand there—a painted creature of such proportions as would cause a skeleton to hang his head in shame.' He stamped on the floor."

"And—and bring my wife here to-night—"

"Your wife?" gasped Rosita.

"Yes! My wife—I get married one little inch ago. And I bring her here in ten to your voice—your golden voice that makes the gallery laugh that makes my wife laugh, too! Oh!"

Rosita's face was livid, she got up and opened a door.

"Get outside," said quietly.

"I will! I will be glad to get out—your beautiful voice. Good! And what means—a dressed-up broomstick?"

and we are going, revenue there-by. It is proposed to purchase two next year. The six coaches which are without lighting equipment are not used as much as they should be, because of the difficulty of combining them with other coaches. This is a mechanical and it is proposed to be done to combine them properly."

He stood framed in the doorway waving his hands frantically as he spoke these words. A quite voice behind him said:

"Lucio! We must go! It is late!"

"I come, my darling!" Then, to Rosita: "Your beautiful voice! I hope God may forgive you! I cannot! Good-bye!"

"Good-bye," Madame!" said the quiet voice behind Lucio, and Rosita looked to see the fattest woman she had ever seen; a mountain of a woman; larger than she, Rosita, had ever been!

Laughter and Food.

As the door closed behind the pair the prima donna began to laugh—hysterical laughter which yet had some real amusement in it.

Lucio—married to the mountain! And she had always thought that he had liked slim women!

Her thoughts flew to what was now a subject of greater importance than Lucio—her voice! She would have it given, out that she had been the victim of nervous prostration; the public would forgive her this one night of failure, she knew, if it thought that she had been ill during the performance. Yes! that was it! Although ill, she had insisted on keeping faith with her public! They would believe it, she knew, and she would be accorded a better reception than ever when once her voice was restored to its original beauty and power.

She would tell Anton, though! He deserved to know the whole story.

There came a knock upon the door.

"Come in!" she called.

A page-boy entered, bearing a tray.

"I thought, Madame, that you would prefer to have your supper after the performance. It is just what Mr. Anton ordered!"

She smiled.

"Thank you! That will do nicely. Put it down!"

She lifted the cover and surveyed the viands there—sole meunier, a quail, peaches that swam in cream, and a bottle of champagne.

She drew a chair up to the table and began pouring out a glass of champagne.

COLONY MILITARY CONTRIBUTION

Revenue Exemptions
MANY INCREASES

An increase in the items of revenue exempt from contribution to military upkeep, was announced by the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Mr. D. W. Trautman, C.M.G., in his Budget speech read at the Legislative Council meeting yesterday.

Mr. Trautman said: "In connection with the Military Contribution, it gives me pleasure to be able to announce that after prolonged negotiation with the War Office, the Secretary of State for the Colonies has secured for the Colony very material increases in the items of revenue exempt from contribution."

"I need not enter here upon the details of these exemptions which are to a certain extent retrospective and will reduce the expenditure for the current year. They have been embodied in a draft amending Ordinance which is now before the Secretary of State and will when approved by him be introduced into this Council in the usual way."

"In addition to relieving the annual expenditure, the concessions should also release a certain portion of the liability under this head which appears as a Suspense Account in the financial statement."
